BANKING

RBI Study Recommends Daily Financial Conditions Index

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has proposed creating a Financial Conditions Index (FCI) for India with daily frequency to enhance real-time monitoring of the country's financial health.

The FCI will be a composite indicator capturing prevailing conditions across key financial segments such as the money market, government securities (G-sec), corporate bonds, equities, and the foreign exchange market.

The index aims to provide a high-frequency gauge of how tight or easy financial market conditions are compared to their historical average since 2012.

The FCI is constructed based on 20 financial market indicators measured daily over a long period.

The index closely tracks turning points in financial conditions during major economic episodes in the sample period.

A higher positive value of the FCI indicates tighter financial conditions.

US Senate Proposes Cutting Remittance Tax To 1%

The latest US Senate draft of the One Big Beautiful Bill Act, released. It has reduced the proposed remittance transfer tax from 3.5% to 1%, a significant change from the House version.

The updated proposal is led by Senate Republicans with a self-imposed deadline of July 4 for the bill's passage.

The tax exclusion applies to remittances made via accounts held with designated US banks and financial institutions, or those funded through debit or credit cards issued in the US.

The tax will only apply to remittances sent through cash, money orders, cashier's checks, or similar physical instruments.

Lloyd Pinto, Partner – US Tax, Grant Thornton Bharat, stated this is a relief to the Non-Resident Indian (NRI) community in the US.

If passed, the remittance transfer tax will come into effect after December 31, 2025.

The measure is part of a broader Republican-led legislative effort to overhaul fiscal policy and tax enforcement.

The bill's current language narrows the tax's application, easing concerns among diaspora communities and cross-border remittance providers.

Mazagon Dock Shipbuilders to Acquire Majority Stake in Colombo Dockyard

Mazagon Dock Shipbuilders Limited (MDL), a state-run company, is set to acquire a controlling stake in Sri Lanka's Colombo Dockyard PLC (CDPLC) under a $52.96 million (₹450 crore) deal.

Colombo Dockyard PLC is located at the Port of Colombo, providing MDL a strategic foothold in a key maritime corridor.

This is the second Indian investment in Sri Lanka's port logistics sector in recent months.

In April 2025, Adani Ports and Special Economic Zone Ltd. (APSEZ) began operations at the Colombo West International Terminal (CWIT).

DRDO Plans Agni-V ICBM Upgrade

India is developing a new version of the Agni missile carrying a massive 7.5-tonne conventional (non-nuclear) warhead.

This missile is designed for precise deep strikes inside enemy territory without using nuclear weapons, marking a major shift in India's defence strategy.

It is believed to be a modified version of Agni-V, India's longest-range ballistic missile, but intended for tactical, non-nuclear roles.

The missile will likely have a shorter range (around 2,000 to 2,500 km) compared to the original Agni-V's 5,000+ km, due to the heavier conventional warhead.

The Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) is developing two specialized warhead types for this missile:

Airburst Warhead: Explodes in air, scattering fragments to destroy surface targets like airfields, radar stations, missile sites, fuel depots, and troop camps.

Bunker Buster Warhead: Penetrates 80–100 meters underground to destroy hardened targets such as bunkers, enemy HQs, and WMD storage sites

This missile fits with India's 'No First Use' nuclear policy, providing a powerful conventional alternative that avoids nuclear escalation.
