RBI Enhances Framework for Fintech Sandbox

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has revised its 'Enabling Framework for Regulatory Sandbox', extending the timelines for various stages of the sandbox process and permitting applicants to establish in-principle partnerships before applying for the sandbox.

The revisions stem from insights gathered over the past four and a half years from running four cohorts and feedback received from fintechs, banking partners, and other stakeholders.

The Regulatory Sandbox (RS) operates through different cohorts, each concentrating on areas such as financial inclusion, payments, lending, and digital Know Your Customer (KYC).

The updated framework mandates sandbox entities to adhere to the provisions outlined in the Digital Personal Data Protection Act of 2023.

RBI has elongated the timelines for various stages of the sandbox process to nine months from the previous seven months.

Additionally, entities are now permitted to establish in-principle partnership arrangements with stakeholders during the sandbox application phase.

Participants in the RS can evaluate the viability of their products without necessitating a broader and costlier roll-out, especially if the product shows potential for success.
