Banking System Liquidity Surplus Exceeds ₹4 Trillion Amid Robust VRRR Demand

The banking system liquidity surplus, measured by funds parked in the RBI's Liquidity Adjustment Facility (LAF), surged to ₹4.04 trillion, the highest since May 19, 2022.

The surge is mainly due to increased government spending and a record ₹2.69 trillion surplus transfer by the RBI in May.

During the seven-day Variable Rate Reverse Repo (VRRR) auction on Thursday, the RBI received bids worth around ₹1.7 trillion against a notified amount of ₹1 trillion and accepted ₹1 trillion at a cut-off rate of 5.47%.

The bidding was significantly higher compared to the previous week's auction, which saw bids of only ₹84,975 crore.

VRRR auctions are used to absorb excess liquidity from the banking system and align overnight rates with the repo rate.

The overnight weighted average call rate (WACR) is currently near the Standing Deposit Facility (SDF) rate of 5.25% and below the repo rate of 5.50%.

The RBI may conduct daily VRRR auctions and potentially raise the notified amount to better align the WACR with the repo rate.

The recent liquidity improvement is attributed to higher government spending and lower-than-expected GST collections, easing typical liquidity pressures.

The RBI has already reduced the Cash Reserve Ratio (CRR), limiting its options for further liquidity withdrawal besides VRRR.

The RBI is expected to focus on shorter-tenure VRRR operations (less than 14 days) as fine-tuning measures to avoid overlapping with upcoming GST outflows.

The RBI aims to improve the transmission of a 100-basis-point repo rate cut during this easing cycle and is unlikely to absorb durable liquidity for now.

SEBI Proposes Dedicated Electronic Book Provider Platform

The Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) has proposed a dedicated electronic book provider platform for fundraising by not-for-profit organisations (NPOs) through the Social Stock Exchange (SSE).

The new framework introduces a common bidding and settlement platform called the SSE Electronic Book Provider (SSE-EBP) to facilitate NPOs issuing Zero Coupon Zero Principal instruments and other permitted securities.

NPOs aiming to raise ₹50 lakh or more in a single issue or through shelf issues must use the SSE-EBP

The platform will be accessible to a broad range of participants, including qualified institutional buyers (QIBs), non-institutional investors, and retail investors.

Issuers are required to submit detailed fundraising documents and term sheets before the issue date, outlining project details, issue size, and key terms.

Investors can place bids through an anonymous pooling system on working days between 9 am and 5 pm, aligned with the schedule of recognised stock exchanges.

Issuers must submit a Draft Fund Raising Document (DFRD) and a term sheet specifying issue size, bid terms, minimum lot size, and mode of allotment.

If successful bidders fail to make payment on time, they will face a 30-day debarment from the SSE-EBP platform.
