SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY

Indian Institute of Technology Bombay Unveils AroTrack

Indian Institute of Technology Bombay (IIT Bombay) have introduced AroTrack, an economical and portable device to accurately detect harmful pollutants such as phenol or benzene in water.

AroTrack targets aromatic xenobiotic pollutants such as phenol, benzene, and xylenols, which are commonly found in polluted water.

The device leverages proteins typically found in bacteria living in polluted environments to detect aromatic pollutants.

These proteins undergo a selective ATP hydrolysis reaction when they come in contact with pollutants, indicating their presence.

The key component of AroTrack is the MopR biosensor, which is highly sensitive for detecting phenol in water.

The device uses a light-emitting diode (LED)-phototransistor system to shine light through the sample.

The amount of light absorbed by the sample helps detect the concentration of pollutants.

AroTrack operates effectively in water temperatures up to 50°C, demonstrating its robustness in various environmental conditions.

The device can complete tests in under 30 minutes, providing quick and reliable results for water quality testing.

BANKING

Reserve Bank of India Infuses ₹25,000 Crore Through VRR Auction

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) injected ₹25,000 crore into the banking system via a variable rate repo auction (VRR) to manage liquidity and prevent increased borrowing costs for banks.

The weighted average call rate rose by 23 basis points above the policy repo rate, reaching 6.73%.

This rise indicates increased short-term borrowing costs for banks.

Surplus liquidity in the banking system dropped to ₹84,154.75 crore due to monthly GST outflows, highlighting the need for RBI intervention to maintain balance.

The RBI conducted the VRR auction to ensure recent overseas outflows from local debt and equity markets did not drive up banks' cost of funds. It was the second such auction since the RBI shifted its policy stance to neutral from withdrawal of accommodation.

RBI aims to keep durable liquidity positive, targeting about 1% to 1.2% of Net Demand and Time Liabilities (NDTL) to maintain call rates near the repo rate and ensure smooth financial functioning.

In the auction, the RBI received ₹35,420 crore in bids, exceeding the notified amount of ₹25,000 crore, indicating high demand for funds from banks.

IMPORTANT DAYS

International Day for the Elimination of Violence Against Women

International Day for the Elimination of Violence Against Women 2024 is observed on the 25th of November 2024.

On November 25, 1960, the Mirabal sisters of the Dominican Republic were assassinated by dictator Rafael Trujillo.

The sisters, who had been active in movements against the Trujillo regime, were beaten and strangled to death, then placed in a Jeep that was driven off a mountainous road in order to make their deaths appear accidental.

According to a report by the United Nations, 19 per cent of women between the ages of 15 and 49 years of age have experienced physical or sexual violence "by an intimate partner."

In some cases, this violence ends in the woman's death.

In December 1999, the United Nations General Assembly designated November 25 as the International Day for the Elimination of Violence Against Women.
